Press Release 2018

Creative Christmas Shopping to fight boredom under the pine tree

Holy Shit Shopping – the Christmas Market against cold feet, clichés, and conventions

Holy Shit – it's Christmas again soon!

The trendsetter of all design markets will start touring the country with its notoriously unconventional Christmas indoor edition on 1 December this year.

Established in 2004, Holy Shit Shopping has offered a much-needed alternative to classical Christmas shopping ever since and has turned unusual locations in Berlin, Hamburg, Stuttgart, and Cologne into enormous weekend creative stores for urban dwellers. Our pop-up stores unite high-quality lifestyle products ranging from fashion, jewelry, furniture and product design to art, photography, and literature manufactured by more than 300 independent businesses, artists and design labels.

A group of DJs are in charge of providing the right soundtrack throughout the event while local street food vendors, lounges and bars invite you to stop by. Holy Shit Shopping is the club version among Christmas markets, bringing to you the original presents that you were secretly looking for and ensuring a merry shopping experience with your peers. Furthermore, HOLY SHIT SHOPPING is going to celebrate its 10th anniversary in Cologne this year.
